Kayser's Italian Silk Underwear

They are the season's greatest Underwear economy. They fit you perfectly, do not bind sitting or standing, and the knickers stretch but never rip. Only Kayser's manufacture them, and we have selected a complete assortment for you to see. A revelation in beauty and durability. For sale in The Dainty Apparel Shop, at $2.00, $2.50,

$2.75, $3.25

Plenty of Navy Blue and Black Suits Here From $20.00 to $45.00

Wool materials of the desirable quality used in these Suits will soon do one of two things: cost a great deal more, or disappear from the civilian market altogether. Manufacturer's prices on the same models have advanced within the past two weeks and will advance further.

It's Economy to Buy Your Spring Suit Now

Assortments are complete for all figures, including stylish stouts. Materials comprise Wool Poplin, Gabardine, Tricotine, and Serge. Plenty of clear Navy Blues and Blacks, braid bound and button trimmed.

Warner's Rust-Proof Corsets

They are extraordinary Corsets at the price of ordinary Corsets. That is why we like to recommend them. The Rust-Proof feature of Warner's Corsets is most important—you can tub them and scrub them and keep them always fresh and clean. Nor will they stain the clothing. Every Corset guaranteed.

$1.00 to $3.00

"The Dainty Apparel Shop"

offers for Friday and Saturday a special lot of

$2.00 Warner's Rust-Proof Corsets in discontinued models, sizes from 19 to 27, for two days only, at

Robert McKnight left the city this forenoon for Chicopee Falls, Mass., where he is to be employed.

New shipment of hats, including the popular panamas, just arrived. Call and see them. Mrs. Blar Mariani, 47 Warren street.

A Comolli and daughter returned this morning to their home in Waterbury, after passing a few days with friends in the city.

Mrs. Elgin J. Gale of Melrose, Mass., a long time resident of this city, is spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Gale of Montpelier.

Miss Mary Donnetti, who is employed in the office of the state commissioner of charities, came to Barre this morning to take testimony in city court.

Traffic signs, which were the subject of considerable discussion at the city council meeting Tuesday, were placed at the streets to-day. After being badly used last season, the police department turned over the signs to the street department last fall, and during the winter needed repairs were made.

The Italian Pleasure club has issued invitations to the fifth of its series of private dancing assemblies, which will be held in the Knights of Columbus hall Friday evening. Morgan's orchestra, an organization of young musicians which has been growing rapidly in public favor, is to play for the dancers.

Adolphus Gougeon of Academy street, a valued employee of the city water department, completed his duties yesterday. Mr. Gougeon has been connected with the department for the past sixteen years, and his familiarity with the operation of water mains, sewers, cut-offs, etc., has been very much of an asset to the city.

Fastidious packages of Cherub chocolates in metal boxes have been received at the Barre Candy Kitchen. Cherub chocolates have a reputation of their own, and the fact that the latest consignment is designed for export purposes will make a special appeal to mothers, sisters and sweethearts who desire to send adequately packed candy boxes to our soldiers in camp, cantonment and "Over There."—adv.

There is every reason to believe that Barre will experience its customary clean-up week this year, although the aldermanic health committee has not completed plans for the municipal house-cleaning. The city council did not inaugurate its second year of garbage collections April 1, as was planned when the collections ceased last fall, and for a time it looked as though the customary clean-up campaign would be omitted this year. The Board of Trade has gone on record as favoring a clean-up, and citizens are quoted as saying that the opportunity for using the big broom has never been greater. Enterprise alley alone, it is said, is worthy the combined efforts of a small army of cleaners.

Arrangements are being made by Manager Young of the Spaulding high school baseball team to meet the alumni to-morrow at the Lincoln campus and while no definite arrangements have been completed as yet, it is likely that the two teams may meet. The high school men have been rounding into form during the past two weeks and at present appear to have the makings of a fairly good team. Polli will do the hurling for the Spaulding team, while Vanetti, who did the bulk of the catching last season, will be on the receiving line. Saturday afternoon at the seminary campus, the Goddard nine will line up against the Norwich Informals, the game being scheduled to have been played last week, but owing to the wet condition of the ground, it was postponed until Saturday. Evans or Berry and Mahoney will be the battery used by Coach McGinnis of the seminary team.

D. A. Perry returned last evening from Tunbridge, where he conducted a sale at the E. B. Sherman farm near South Royalton, at which a large number of buyers were present; it was estimated that at least 500 persons were on the ground in the early afternoon. Thirty head of Jersey stock, many of the number being fall cows, averaged $64; horses sold for $150 and upwards; farming tools and machinery brought exceptionally good prices. Mr. Perry made the trip by automobile and found the roads very good.

At the House sale in Berlin on Tuesday of this week, cows sold from $48 to $150, and 22 grade Ayrshire cows averaged $86; four grade Guernsey yearlings sold for $54 each; pair horses brought $500 and pair oxen $349; hens, $120 each. Farming tools and machinery were well sold. Mr. House is about to move to his newly acquired property on the road between Barre and Topsham.

Today Mr. Perry is conducting an auction for Hiram L. Sparrow, administrator of the Charles H. Parker estate at Calais.

Red Cross Meeting Friday.

A special meeting of the Red Cross will be held in Aldrich hall Friday evening at 7:30 to hear the report of the Red Cross convention held in Boston last week. The work of the home service in Barre will be explained and there will be a message of particular interest to those making surgical dressings. This meeting is open to everyone. Evelyn Drew, Sec.

Card of Thanks.

We desire to express our appreciation and sincere thanks for the words of sympathy and comfort, and the many helpful ministrations extended us in our bereavement. To the Masonic bodies, the Odd Fellows, the Knights of Pythias, members of the Baptist church, neighbors and friends, and to all who, by messages of cheer sent to our loved one, have helped to make the long months of illness less tedious we are especially grateful.

Mrs. Albert S. Jones and family.

MONTPELIER

Central Vermont Is Hauling Much Freight at Present.

Freight traffic on the Central Vermont railway is very heavy at the present time, the engines being loaded to their pulling capacity. A few days since a train composed of two engines and many cars making up 2750 tons left Montpelier Junction for southern New England. One of the engines was detached at Roxbury, while the other took the train into White River Junction.

Harvey Dodge went to Waterbury on Wednesday and distributed among the farmers a carload of fertilizer for the Washington County Farmers' exchange, of which he is treasurer.

Mrs. Moses Fertil is visiting her son in Lynn, Mass.

Captain Edward Baker and Hiram Pierce left last evening for Burlington to attend the annual G. A. R. encampment.

Gov. H. F. Graham has appointed Carl W. Cameron of Hartford as justice of peace in place of James C. Harvey, deceased.

Gov. H. F. Graham has received the report of the discharge because of physical disability of C. H. Chadwick, a Chittenden county man who went to Camp Devens.

Because of the fact that in some 23 towns there are persons who buy coal in carload lots, ranging from one car to six cars, according to the reports of the state fuel administrator's office, a letter is being sent to each person buying coal in that manner in these towns asking that one of them act as fuel committee.

This is practically necessary if the people of those towns get coal this winter, for the federal government is not making effort to provide coal where there is no supervision of distribution. In some of the towns there are as many as five persons who buy coal in the above manner. The towns are, New Haven, Shaftsbury, Colchester, Williston, Lunenburg, Montgomery, Fairfield, Isle La Motte, North Hero, Hartland, Sharon, Stowe, Wolcott, Chelsea, Greensboro, Sudbury, Leicester, Clarendon, Mt. Holly, Pittsford, Moretown, Waitsfield.

R. G. Reynolds, who has been here attending Frank Reynolds, his brother, who is ill at the Montpelier house, finds the work relative to the summer school that will be conducted for boys at the Vail school getting in shape rapidly. H. speaks to-night in Brattleboro and will conduct a tour through Vermont, enlisting the boys who want the two weeks' training. Then the other work will be done by placing the boys on the farms. If it is found that there is but little call for these boys one thing will be ascertained, namely, that the hue and cry for labor is not substantiated. Those boys will be taught work which they can do to help the farmer and boys who are not fitted for farm work will not be sent to the farms to bother the owners unless by their request.

Commissioner of Agriculture E. S. Brigham of St. Albans was in the city this morning on his way home, after speaking at the grange meeting in East Montpelier.

Postmaster B. E. Bailey returned this morning from a visit with his family in Williamstown. He brought some nice sugar and enjoyed quite a variety of pastimes Wednesday. In the morning sugaring, and then in the afternoon going trout fishing, and landing 10 of the speckled beauties.

Prof. Clyde Hill went to Waitsfield this morning on educational matters.

A meeting of the Western Union employees took place at the Montpelier
